Advertising Moves the Goods

John Wanamaker declares that one of his stores carried a stock of $8,000,000 for the holiday trade, an increase of a million and a half for this particular season. Mr. Wanamaker is a great believer in the power of printer's ink, and he advertises the fact that he has the goods to suit the trade whenever they want it, and thereby moves his stock so that it comes in new at the rate of a half million dollars' worth a day just now.

Mr. Wanamaker is a business man who is in business to get rid of his stock of goods. It makes little difference how well a dealer keeps up his stock throughout the year, or increases it at the holiday season, if he does not advertise the fact. Having such a stock does him no good unless he can move it, and the most effective manner in which he can accomplish that is by advertising. The merchant who advertises in The Bulletin puts his wares into the presence of 40,000 people, all of whom are filling Christmas lists. Move your stock by letting these people know you mean business, for it is to the columns of The Bulletin that the buyers look and find holiday suggestions. Wanamaker's advice and example are worthy of emulation.

Not only as an advertising, but as a news medium, does The Bulletin lead. The following matter appeared during the week, deliv-

A Drastic Investigation

More than incidentally have appeared indications of what promises to be the most drastic investigation of the police department since the developments of police corruption involved in the Rosenthal murder and trial of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker. District Attorney Whitman is known to have his investigating forces busily employed looking into not only Mrs. Goode's charges, but those of othe women who are declared to corrob orate her story, and to have supplied evidence that the conditions she outed rule in large measure throughou

NEW HAVEN MAY CONTROL THE RUTLAND RAILROAD

Division of Supreme Court. New York, Dec. 13.-Through de cision of the appellate division of the supreme court today the recent order restraining the New York Central restraining the New York Central radiroad from selling its control of the Rutland Radiroad company to the New York, New Haven and Hartford rali-road was reversed. In the prevailing opinion Presiding Justice Ingraham declares that the suit apparently was brought in the interest of minority stockholders of the Rutland to compel the New Haven road to purchase their stock at the same price paid the New York Central. Justice Ingraham's opinion points out that the system of the New York Central is in fact a much greater com-petitor of the Rutland than is the New Haven and says that if it would be illegal for the New Haven to obtain control of the Rutland, it would be a more serious violation of the federal statute for the Central to continue in control of that road. The effect of the injunction would be to restrain the Central from relieving itself of the ownership which is alleged to violate the law. In this connection the opinion by its injunction prevent a corpora-tion from transferring a control which it is alleged is in violation of the federal statutes, because the purchase of the control will probably violate the same law."

MAKES CONFESSION

Clay Killed His Wife Because Baby

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 13.—Just before he was hanged here today, Robert L. Clay broke a silence of seven months and confessed to the murder of his wife here last May. Clay said that when he went to see this wife, from whom he had been separated, he had no thought of killing her. When he entered the house he stooped to kiss his baby boy and the child shoved him away. This so angered him, Clay said, that he shot his wife dead.

As the black cap was being adjusted Clay turned to his father-in-law, standing near by, and asked permission to be buried beside his wife. The request was refused.

the conference will separate without concluding peace. The important ques-tion has arisen as to whether Rumania should join the ambassadorial conference which will convene simultaneous ly with the peace conference to discuss pending European questions. The mater still remains unsettled, but it is said that Germany, Austria and Italy all favor Rumania's participation Some differences of opinion exist as to whether this conference should discuss the question of a Servian port on the Adriatic. Planning Conference of Powers. That weighty matters will be decidd at the conference is evident from the fact that the Austrian and French ambasedors at London are now on Adrianople a Bone of Contention.

The newspaper interviews given by the Turkish and Bulgarian delegates on their journey toward London indicate that a keen struggle will take place in the pence conference over the
